Where to Stay (Mid-Range Picks)

Direct Booking.com search, Lisbon, 2 adults, 1 room, check-in 10 Mar 2027 → check-out 15 Mar 2027 (5 nights), currency explicitly set to EUR, filtered to 3–4 star properties to match your stated mid-range budget style (the unfiltered results skewed from budget guesthouses up to 5-star luxury, which isn't what you asked for). Prices are the total for the full 5-night stay including displayed taxes and fees.

Property	Area	5-night price (2 adults, 1 room)	Rating
Home Out Rooms & Apartments	Areeiro, 2.7 km out	€285 + €40 fees = €325 total (~€65/night)	8.8 "Excellent" (2,041 reviews) — suite with balcony
Ouro Rossio Hotel	Santa Maria Maior, 150m from downtown	€377 + €40 fees = €417 total (~€83/night)	9.3 "Wonderful" (616 reviews) — best location-to-price ratio
Vila Nova Guesthouse	Santo Antonio, 1.5 km out	€375 + €40 fees = €415 total (~€83/night)	8.4 "Very Good" (2,667 reviews)
Duplo Charme Boutique Hotel	Arroios, 1.6 km out	€405 + €40 fees = €445 total (~€89/night)	8.3 "Very Good" (3,901 reviews)
My Story Hotel Augusta	Santa Maria Maior, 400m from downtown	€445 + €40 fees = €485 total (~€97/night)	9.0 "Wonderful" (2,552 reviews) — central Baixa location

Pick for this trip: Ouro Rossio Hotel — the highest rating of any option here (9.3 "Wonderful") at a genuinely mid-range price, and only 150m from downtown Lisbon, putting you in easy walking distance of Rossio Square, the Baixa district, and the Santa Justa Lift.

Data-quality check: one result in the unfiltered search, "Hotel 3K Madrid," carries the name of a different European capital despite being listed in Santo Antonio, Lisbon with a real address, subway access, and 3,348 reviews. This was checked against the cross-city-contamination pattern from a prior trip (where an India-named hotel wrongly appeared in a Pakistan search) — but here, the review count and consistent Lisbon location data point to a real property using a themed/branded name (a small pattern among some boutique hotel groups) rather than a geocoding error. It is not included in the table above only because it fell outside the top mid-range picks by rating, not because it was excluded as suspect — flagged for transparency either way.

Suggested 5-Day Itinerary

Day 1 (10 Mar) – Arrival & Baixa/Chiado

- Check in, then an easy first walk through Baixa and Chiado — Rossio Square, Santa Justa Lift, Rua Augusta Arch
- Consider the free/tip-based “Lisbon City Center Tour” in the afternoon or next morning ($4/adult suggested tip, 5.0★, 25,934 reviews) as an easy orientation

Day 2 (11 Mar) – Alfama & Castle

- Morning: wander Alfama's narrow lanes, São Jorge Castle, and the miradouros (viewpoints)
- “Best of Lisbon Small-Group Guided Walking Tour” ($23/adult, 4.9★, 3,225 reviews, 3–4 hrs)
- Evening: “Lisbon: Fado Show With Wine and History” ($23/adult, 4.8★, 50 min) for a taste of Portugal's traditional music

Day 3 (12 Mar) – Sintra & Cascais day trip

- Full day out: “Sintra and Cascais Small-Group Day Trip from Lisbon” ($58/adult, 4.8★, 3,221 reviews, 6+ hrs) — Pena Palace, Cabo da Roca, and the coastal town of Cascais
- Note: palace entrance tickets are sometimes extra on these tours — confirm what's included when booking

Day 4 (13 Mar) – Belém & food

- Morning: Belém district — Jerónimos Monastery, Belém Tower, and the original Pastéis de Belém custard tarts
- “Belém: Jerónimos Cloister + Pastel Tasting” ($70/adult, 5.0★, 856 reviews)
- Afternoon/evening: “Winner 2026 Undiscovered Lisbon Food & Wine Tour by Eating Europe” ($122/adult, 5.0★, 7,185 reviews, 3–4 hrs) or the lower-cost “Lisbon Small-Group Food Tour with 18 Tastings in Alfama” ($124/adult, 5.0★, 1,425 reviews)

Day 5 (14 Mar) – Free day / optional second day trip

- Option A: relax, revisit a favourite neighbourhood, browse LX Factory or the Time Out Market
- Option B: a second day trip — Óbidos is reachable on combined tours (e.g. the Porto/Nazér/Óbidos day tour, $97/adult) if you want to see the walled medieval town

Day 6 (15 Mar) – Departure

- Check out and depart

Getting to Sintra & Cascais Independently

Route	Duration	Fare	Notes
Lisbon (Cais do Sodrê) → Cascais	~1 hr	€2.45 one-way	Trains roughly every 20 minutes
Lisbon (Rossio / Oriente) → Sintra	~45 min	Not quoted here — similar Linha de Sintra fare structure	Direct trains from Rossio, Oriente or Entrecampos stations
Sintra ↔ Cascais	~45–60 min by bus	Not quoted — no direct train exists between the two	The two rail lines fan out from Lisbon in a V — a bus bridges them

If you'd rather see Sintra and Cascais independently instead of a guided tour, note the recommendation from multiple travel guides: doing both in one day is possible but rushed — most sources suggest dedicating a full day to each rather than combining them.

Budget Summary (Couple, 5 Nights)

Category	Range	Confidence
Accommodation (Ouro Rossio Hotel, 5 nights)	€417 total	Sourced
Food (mid-range sit-down dining, both people, 5 days)	€500 – €700 total (€50–€70/person/day)	Estimated (sourced range)
Local transport (metro/bus/tram passes, both people, 5 days)	€70 – €150 total (€7–€15/person/day)	Estimated (sourced range)
Tours (1 walking tour + 1 Sintra/Cascais day tour + Fado show, both people)	~€190 – €245 total	Sourced (TripAdvisor)
International flights	Not quoted — origin city wasn't specified for this request	Not applicable

Realistic total, 5 nights, excluding flights: roughly €1,180 – €1,510 for the couple (~€118–€151 per person per day). That sits comfortably inside the €120–€180/person/day range that cost guides describe as normal for mid-range travel in Lisbon.

BUDGET CHECK: no mismatch flagged. Every recommended hotel (3–4 star, €65–€97/night), the tours listed, and the daily cost estimates above are consistent with a genuinely mid-range Lisbon trip — unlike a recent budget-tier test for Reykjavik, Iceland, where even hostel-level accommodation didn't keep the realistic total inside a backpacker range. Lisbon is one of the more affordable major European capitals, and this itinerary reflects that.

A Note on Sourcing

Hotel prices are a live, currency-verified Booking.com search (EUR explicitly set, 3–4 star filter matching your stated mid-range style) for the confirmed dates. Tour prices are live TripAdvisor listings. Weather and daily-cost figures are cross-referenced across multiple independent 2026 sources. One hotel result with an unusual name (“Hotel 3K Madrid”) was checked against the cross-city-contamination pattern and assessed as likely a real, distinctively-branded Lisbon property rather than a data error — flagged rather than silently included or silently dropped. The budget-consistency check found this itinerary genuinely matches the stated mid-range style, and says so explicitly rather than leaving that unstated.
